

Classroom Management

This two-hour session explores those strategies and principles of effective classroom management that can make a difference.

- Explore the components of good classroom management.
- Strategies for increasing learning while minimizing inappropriate behavior.
- Identifying the causes of disruption and inappropriate behavior and putting in place prescriptions for prevention.

Warning: This is not a boring lecture. Active-learning will occur in this session!

Facilitator: Tim Clapper has taught and modeled effective leadership principles for over twenty years and has taught youth in both SES affluent and disadvantaged schools. He has facilitated professional development sessions with the same active methods he desires teachers to walk away with themselves. His expertise is sharing with educators how to differentiate instruction in a collaborative, brain-based manner to keep participants actively involved. Tim also shows educators how to take the fear out of integrating technology by using simple, common tasks to make a difference.
